

EARN PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT CREDIT!

For many educators, conference attendance will help fulfill your in-service professional development requirements. Local school districts or state colleges do the actual awarding of the in-service points for public programs. Each institution may have slightly different procedures for awarding such points. You will need to check with the appropriate staff person at your institution to complete the required procedures.

FLC will be distributing certificates for continuing education hours to individuals who complete the appropriate documentation. You must pre-register for this option on the registration form.
