FLORIDA LITERACY COALITION ANNOUNCES ANNUAL FLORIDA LITERACY AWARD WINNERS

ORLANDO, Florida (May 21, 2010) – The Florida Literacy Coalition recently recognized three organizations and three individuals for their commitment and dedication to increasing adult and family literacy in the state of Florida. The awards were presented at a special banquet held during the annual Florida Literacy Conference in Captiva, Fla.

“It is crucial to highlight the efforts of these award winners,” said Greg Smith, Executive Director of the Florida Literacy Coalition. “Their hard work and dedication best illustrates the impact and importance of our literacy programs throughout the state.”

In all, six awards were presented during the banquet. Bank of America (Central Florida) was recognized as an Outstanding Business Partner for their leadership and significant contributions to support Orlando’s Adult Literacy League. Through grants and program training, the organization has raised the profile of adult education and literacy in Central Florida.

The Gainesville Sun was honored as an Outstanding Media Partner for their outstanding, innovative and effective coverage of literacy issues. The company has been a driving force behind the area’s Annual Family Literacy Festival, and provides the Alachua County Literacy Network with a regular meeting space, administrative support and free advertising for volunteer recruitment.

Marion County's Literacy Council received the Excellence in Education award as an organization demonstrating outstanding achievement in adult and family literacy education. The council has doubled the number of adult students it services in the past two years and has a dedicated volunteer base of more than 80 tutors. The organization has come a long way from its beginnings in the founder's garage in 1999.

Cherie Byrnes of Citrus County was recognized with the Outstanding Literacy Volunteer award for her efforts with the Citrus County Library System. Byrnes has demonstrated exceptional service and commitment to tutoring and program operations, and was instrumental in launching the library's first English language classes.

Nancy Tamayo de Galdez, an adult student from Palm Beach County, was honored with the Flight for Freedom Award for her extraordinary accomplishments in improving her literacy skills. A single, working mother, Tamayo de Galdez started learning English as a second language in 2007. Over than past three years she has volunteered hundreds of hours with the local literacy academy and other community organizations. She also is currently attending Kaiser College to become a medical assistant.

Margaret Anne Wheeler of Polk County was recognized with the Mary J. Brogan Leadership Award for upholding the highest standards of excellence, dedication, leadership and creativity for her literacy work in Polk County for more than two decades. Wheeler is revered as a role model for others, an ambassador for excellence in education and an advocate for the adult learner.
